

Report of the Racial and Social Justice/Just Schools Committee
Submitted by Tracy Hartman-Bradley and Sasha Cervantes

Social Justice Committee members have been involved in a multitude of projects during the course of the last year. Several members are currently part of different NEA learning cohorts of the program Leaders for Just Schools. The team was also part of a convening of several NSEA committees in December 2021. Members of the committee had the opportunity to work with NSEA leadership and staff to provide input on policy language to address student discipline that considers the mental, social and cultural needs of students who are often in crisis when behaviors occur. As in-person meetings begin to take place, the Social Justice Committee will organize opportunities for all members to engage with this work across the state.
